"TECHNICAL ANALYSIS FOR EVERYONE"

MICHAEL KAHN

May 4, 2015 – Well, it's May and the pundits say it is time to sell. And check out the front page headlines on MarketWatch this morning – not edited:

- This big bubble is close to popping, killing our dreams
- Death of the American dream as a big bubble readies to pop
- Here's how a stock market sounds when the bubble bursts
- 3 smart moves for a pricey stock market
- 5 things about ETFs that scare investors
- Bullish argument for stocks turns out to be wrong: Hulbert

Do you see a theme? Get out of stocks? Hunker down? Cash is king!

This is scary stuff so maybe we should sell? We don't think so. The mood out there is far from a bubble despite the low VIX so we do not see any need for excessive fear. Healthy fear is always good but we are not getting out just because the calendar turned a page. Check out the Big Picture chart below where we simply highlight the month of May going back several years.

The hourly chart shows a nice recovery from the short-term breakdown. Looking at this chart in a vacuum and ignoring everything even we said over the past week it looks to be more bullish than bearish here. We think everyone jumps on board if and when this hits a new high.

Elsewhere, bonds are on the edge of a cliff but have not tumbled over just yet. Oil looks nice. Gold looks sloppy but gold stocks look much better. So do industrial mining and metals stocks. Did you see AA on Friday?

Biotech seems to have found a bottom. Retail still seems to be hurting quite badly. And we are still waiting for banks to finally break out.

Index Charts of the Day

It is time to put the symmetrical triangle (pennant) pattern to rest. The new pattern is an ascending triangle. Subtle difference but the upper border to watch is now flat. We still have that breakout failure and reversal last week but it may have already run its course. That is why there is a fainter triangle border drawn in there with a breakdown failure to offset the first failure.

We usually say that patterns must pop off the chart at us to be valid. Here we can see support and resistance levels but neither failure nor other signals are clear. We have to stay with the overall rising trend but understand it looks to be the bumpiest of roads.

The Radar Screen

This is a list of potential opportunities, not a recommended portfolio. Underlined text is a change from previous report and if important it will be highlighted in yellow. If and when stocks give buy or sell signals here, they then move into the Advice Tracker section below. Dates listed are first appearances in the Radar Screen or the last major update. We do not take "buy/sell on close" triggers or "at the open" triggers if the stock moves more than 4-5%. See <http://quicktakespro.com/radar.html> for all Radar Screen rules and terms.

Bullish Implications
Matrix Services MTRX – Heavy construction stock now in a bull flag right at 200-day average. Buy close over 22.50		4/7
Oracle ORCL – Tested trendline breakout on lower volume. Looks good.	Triggered	5/1
E*Trade ETFC – Broke out from the rectangle pattern and came back to test it. Looks good here.	Triggered	5/1
Hewlett Packard HPQ – Inverted head-and-shoulders breakout in advance of Carly Fiorina’s announcement? Looks good so we’ll go with it.	New	5/4
Bearish Implications
Keurig GMCR – A stock on precipice. It has a moving average death cross in February. Now that it bounced we will sell under 111. This one has been here a long time and it is starting to form a triangle.		3/30
Unknown Implications none –
Holding Tank - red shade leans bearish, green shade leans bullish
Caterpillar CAT – Breakout failure so far. Keep watching as strength now would catch everyone off guard and likely be a buy. Looks like we’ve missed it. We’ll keep it here for a few more days in case it dips.		4/24
IBM - Ditto		4/30
FedEx FDX – Breakdown failure last month and now squeezed between averages.		4/29
Dollar General DG – Here is a retailer awaiting a better sell signal. Already has a short-term support break and trendline break.	New	5/4
Sector Watch (observations that may spark ideas)
Banks ETF KBE - Still waiting for a real breakout despite same in JPM and GS . Getting very close.		4/21
Industrial Metals stocks – FCX, SCCO, TS, CCJ looking better		4/27
Updates
none –

Market Highlights

Long T-bond ETF – Did not confirm bullish reversal. Still has the trendline and support.

US dollar index – If we could write the script it would be a bounce to test the support break and then a trendline breakdown. But that is just us, not the market. For now, support is holding.

Transports – Did it again. Another save at support but the longer it hangs around here the higher the odds for a breakdown become.

REIT ETF – This interest sensitive group is on the edge of a cliff.

Nasdaq Biotech ETF – Breakdown saved? Other indices have breakdowns that will fail if they rally today.

Retail ETF – This is a breakdown. “Will it stick?” is the question.

Dollar General – Here is a retailer awaiting a better sell signal.

Church & Dwight – No trade here but rather a look into consumer products. These staples stocks (PG, CL) look terrible and worse than the XLP ETF.

Hewlett Packard – Inverted head-and-shoulders breakout in advance of Carly Fiorina’s announcement? Looks good so we’ll go with it.

Verifone – Another stock to watch for a breakout. Note rising on-balance volume.

The Big Picture

In this section, we take a macro look at things.

This is a monthly chart of the S&P 500 with each month of May highlighted. Let's go over it with regard to "sell in May and go away."

2009 – A total bust. It was the start of a bull market

2010 – Stepping aside during the summer months did improve returns if you violated the rules and bought back early. Otherwise, no change from holding long.

2011 - That time it worked.

2012 – You felt good for one month and then watched prices climb without you

2013 – Another total bust

2014 – Yet another total bust

That's one win in six tries – not exactly a good strategy.

What was happening here? This is the age of Quantitative Easing and zero interest rates. It is not a time of free market so until the Fed is really out of the way we cannot rely on these old chestnuts.

Advice Tracker

This is a list of stocks that have triggered buys or sells and not a recommended portfolio. We will track them with suggested strategies but specific stops and position closes are up to the subscriber. Symbols in red mean that the position was stopped out. Stops in red were changed. Any position that moves in the desired direction and then reverses by 5% from the extreme that day is an automatic stop out. This is to compensate for the inability of this once per day newsletter to alert subscribers to the reversal.
